Vertera™

The Global Standard in Cash Recycling Technology

Profitable Branches Delivered

Improved staff efficiency along with enhanced customer-focused engagements in a more secure environment.

Protect your cash, staff and customers

The vault-level steel safe protects your staff, your customers, and reduces cash exposure. Cash environments are more secure when there is less cash exposure at the frontline, and open branch banking and open retail floor plans are possible with cash exposure nearly eliminated. Vault-buys and sells can be done easily and effortlessly as the recycler serves as a vault and eliminates the need for dual control.

Enhance your staff and customer experience

Vertera makes transactions effortless, allowing a more consultative conversation and creating a better staff and customer experience. Vertera offers four design options. The standing and sit-down units in both standard and high capacities provide flexibility when automating your branch or store. The standing units fit seamlessly into a traditional teller line or open retail design, while the sit-down units can be used under a desk or in a back office for more personalized transactions.

Lower total cost of ownership

The Vertera Note Handling Module (NHM) has been re-engineered to reduce note jams and allow easier access to the note path. This results in greater equipment up-time, fewer service calls, and better staff experience as they continue assisting customers.

With easier access to the note path, service call times may also be reduced. Vertera's unique auto correct function allows the recycler to attempt to automatically clear errors, eliminating the need for staff intervention or service calls.

Advanced technology improves transaction efficiency

Vertera has the most robust detection and authentication sensors on the market. It is engineered utilizing Glory's expertise in note feeding and sensor technology. Accuracy and transaction time will improve, resulting in more efficient transactions. Four full-width, double-sided detector bays provide Vertera with visible, infrared, ultra violet and magnetic detection capabilities to authenticate currency as it passes over the sensors. Two additional detector bays are available for new note security features, essentially future-proofing your investment.
